PAVING CONTRACT

Judge Lueck of Juneau Says Fond du Lac Paving Contract Was Fond du Lac, Wis., March 3.—Judge Lueck of Juneau said today that the decision of the findings for the city of Fond du Lac in the case of C. D. McMillan to restrain the city from entering into a contract with the Harder Aircraft Co. to pave Park avenue, one of the principal streets of the city. The court returned that there was no evidence of fraud to be found in the contract.

NELSON AND BRITT
TO FIGHT TONIGHT

Will Met in a Ten-round No-decision
Fight Before Pacific Athletic Club.

Los Angeles, Cal., March 3.—Those old-time rivals of the lightweight division, Battling Nelson and Jimmy Britt, are to have it out again tonight in the arena of the Pacific Athletic club. Though it will be a ten-round-no-decision affair and with little bearing on the championship the bout has aroused the liveliest kind of interest among ring followers. The reason for this is that no two fighters ever put up a harder fought battle than Nelson and Britt when they came to settle the question of relative supremacy and also the personal grudge that exists between them.

Tonight's fight will be the fourth time the two have faced each other in the squared circle. The first battle, after twenty hard rounds, went to Britt on the referee's decision. The second was a furious attack and resulted in Nelson knocking Britt out in the eighteenth round. The third contest gave the honors to Britt at the end of one of the fastest twenty-round fights ever seen on the coast.

ALMOND STREET TO BE OPEN

Amendment to Ald. Clark's Tree-trimming Ordinance Met with Some Opposition at Council Meeting.

All members of the common committee, excepting Alderman H. W. Brown, were present at the regular session
last evening. The city treasurer's report for February, the board of education's report showing that orders for $5,100.73 were drawn during the same period; and the municipal court report showing that fines, fees, and penalties amounting to $91.65 were collected during the month, were received and placed on file. The finance committee's report on bills and the salary list for February were also adopted.

Fire Department Report

Chief Klein's quarterly report for the fire department was referred to the fire and water committee. Fourteen alarms since Jan. 1, seven of them "stills," and the most serious in the history of the city by the burning of the Julius Marquise tobacco warehouse at the corner of Franklin and Riverside streets on Jan. 18, were recorded.

Insured loss on contents was given as about $250,- 000 and on building as $5,000. Attention was called to the fact that there are several districts in the city where the number of hydrants is insufficient and where the mains are not large enough to furnish an adequate supply of water, and a request was made that these conditions be investigated. In order to expedite operations in event of a blaze in that locality, the Chief recommended that a street sign post
in proximity to the hydrant at the corner of Franklin and Milwaukee streets be removed in order to permit free use of the hydrant wrench. The purchase of two new flags was advised. In case the city deems it advisable to make further patriotic displays, call members of the department having petitioned the Chief to use his efforts to have their pay increased by $1.00 to $10 a month after Feb. 1, their modest prayer was attached to the report.

Council Not to Elect Marshal

City Attorney H. L. Maxfield's opposition to the powers of the common council or the board of fire and police commissioners to elect a city marshal or chief of police was received and placed on file.

While R. seemed to him that Sections 93-94 and 93-94 of the laws of 1907, providing that the chief of police and chief of the fire department shall be appointed by the board of fire and police commissioners,
it is to the constitutional question raised in the case of O'Connor vs. the City of Fond du Lac (109 Wis. 253), wherein the supreme court held that the office of chief of police or city marshal (particular name of the office being immaterial) were well known and the manner of their election provided for at the time of the adoption of the constitution and that the power of electing or appointing such officers was prohibited to the legislature. Atty. Maxfield recognized the fact that he was not warranted in holding the law unconstitutional and void. Until the proper tribunal shall take such action, the election of city marshal must be made by the board. This will undoubtedly be done unless the attorney wishes to expend some more of the city's good money in carrying questions up to the proper tribunal.

To Abolish Biennial Tax-Paying

Ald. Merritt presented an ordinance providing for the adoption of certain sections of the general charter law which would do away with the present system of collecting city taxes separately from the county and state tribute, and it was given its first and second reading and held over for final action at a future meeting.

Alderman Clark presented another amendment to his tree trimming ordinance. It stipulated that the branches of shade and ornamental trees bordering the highways shall not be lower than 10 feet from the ground at the trunk and 18 feet from the ground at the center of the highway. Alderman Sheridan was sollicit-ous about some stately old elms on Jackson street which have only two or three limbs and which might be ruined by such procedure.

Atld. Clark did not think it would hurt such trees to have the low hanging chopped off. Mayor Hedges thought this move to secure better lighting on the streets was a good one. The motion to give the amendment its first and second reading was carried by a vote of 6 to 3, Alderman Dulles, Jones and Sheridan responding in the negative.

Almond Street to be Opened.

By the terms of a resolution introduced by Ald. Sheldon and passed without opposition, the street commissioner is instructed to remove all fences and obstructions and open up Almond street to the river near the south Rue de Wheeler street.

Another resolution sponsored by Ald. Sheldon and passed provided for the grading of Court street from the east side of Garfield street to Liberty street and the street assessment committee is instructed to view the premises and assess the benefits and damages.

The street commissioner was instructed by an order to place 12 x 20 board to be used for legal notices, on the street sign post at the corner of W. Milwaukee and N.
Franklin streets.

Miscellaneous Business.

The highway committee was granted further time for the consideration of a proposition from the trognois
from Works to sell the city a steam road roller for $2,500 and take the old Buffalo Pitts in exchange for junk.
The faithful gasoline-motor roller was again present at the session
last evening.

Major Hedges' appointment of John Dalton as special police officer
without pay from Feb. 27 to April 10 was granted.

SEWER WORK TO
COST $60,000RECOMMENDED BY THE STREET
ASSESSMENT COMMITTEE.

TRUNK LINE ACROSS RIVER

Will Connect East Side Main with West Side Pipelines Which Will Be Carried Below Power Plant.

Last evening the street assessment committee, consisting of Mayor H. B.
Heddes, City Engineer C. V. Kerec,
and Alderman J. J. Sheridan, W. H.
Merritt, and J. J. Dulin, submitted to the council a proposed plan of sewer construction in 1908. Extensive operations which include the building of the West Side trunk line on Western avenue clear through to the Monterey power plant, and the carrying of the East Side trunk line across the river to connect with it, are outlined. Upon making investigations with his tools
yesterday afternoon the city engineer found that it would not be practicable to build merely a fractional section of the main sewer on Western avenue
with a temporary outlet at Center avenue—that grades would not permit siphoning under the dam. The committee therefore decided to ask that the whole southern portion of the sewer be completed at this time. According to a rough estimate, it will cost about $60,000. The report was referred to the council committee on sewers and will come up for action on some future session. Construction work urged is as follows:

IN SEWERAGE DISTRICT NO. 15:

On Rueine street from Main St. to Logan street.

IN SEWERAGE DISTRICT NO. 14:

On Oakland Ave. from Main St. to a point 20 feet east of the east line of Jefferson Ave.

FORTY YEARS AGO

Janesville Daily Gazette, Tuesday, March 3, 1868.—What's the Matter?

During the driving snow-storm and gale of wind from the northeast, which was experienced on Sunday and Sunday night in this region, the barometer was lower than it has been for a long time, and the cold was severe.

A New York paper, some weeks since, published a statement of Prof. Delosier, who says that on the night of Feb. 27th there would be a conjunction of the moon with Jupiter and Venus, and that on the night of March 1st Jupiter would pass Venus by only twenty-three seconds of a degree. He says the result of these conjunctions will be atmospheric commotion, heavy gales and high tides, with prospect of similar phenomena during the year. The professor's predictions have so far proved correct, but we hope he may be mistaken with regard to the more remote effect of this filtration of Jupiter and Venus.

Articles of Impeachment Adopted.—The House of Representatives has passed the Articles of Impeachment as reported by the committee, with the exception of the seventh article, which, being a repetition of points contained in other articles, it was not thought necessary to pass.

Mr. Butler's Amendment was voted down by a large majority.

The Senate has adopted its rules of procedure, substantially as they have been published, except instead of calling it a High Court Impeachment, it was thought best to call it the Senate, sitting as a Court of Impeachment.

Everything is now ready to proceed with the trial and today the House will go to the bar of the Senate, with great solemnity, and then immediately notice will be served upon the President to appear, probably within two days, and answer or show cause why he is not ready to proceed with his trial at once. The friends of impeachment are decidedly encouraged with the manner in which both the House and the Senate have proceeded with the subject, laying aside all other business.

It is now expected that the impeachment trial will begin on Tuesday of next week.

The visitors were somewhat handicapped by the size of the gym, but their lack of team work was the greater cause of their defeat. Sicks at center started for the Milwaukee team. Stewart and Ingham, on guards for the college, are responsible for holding the medics to a low score. Final score: Milton, 38; Milwaukee, 13.

HAVE TROUBLE OVER A TELEPHONE POLE

Monroe Mayor employs men to cut down offensive pole this morning.

Monroe, Wis., March 3.—Meyer Ludlow and members of the city council who objected to a pole placed by the Monroe Telephone company and succeeded in getting the company to move an order staying the company notice to move the pole 18 inches in 48 hours, an order that the company was willing to comply with but held off in the hope of securing a hearing, took the matter in their own hands and employed men to cut down the pole at daybreak.

The company contends that the parties interfered with their property without authority and will have the matter investigated for the purpose of having their rights defended and interest known for the purpose of bringing legal action and to protect itself. Mayor Ludlow has objected to the pole so strongly that in bailing down on the committee in order that his position be sustained threatened to resign unless the company required the company to move the pole. The pole stood out at the edge of a cement gutter at an angle and the order of the council was to move it eighteen inches, bringing it into the corner of the curb and footwalk that connects with a 12-foot cement walk. Because of a private sewer the company could not set the pole as first located in the afternoon.

There was no morning nor evening preaching service at the Baptist church. The Sunday school convened at 11 o'clock and the Lutheran service was held as usual in the afternoon.

Mrs. W. P. Jackson and Miss Edna Bolender went to Chicago this morning to spend the week.

A hot water pipe covering, supposed to be asbestos, caught fire at the residence of Henry Ludlow yesterday and when discovered the flames were racing through the rafters by the basement. The timely discovery made possible the quenching of the flames without calling the fire department.

Mrs. Margaret Kibby of this city fell on the ice at her home yesterday and fractured her left hip. The break is a bad one and as she is 76 years old the accident is a very serious one for her.

TO RUN MOTOR CAR BEGINNING MONDAY

North-Western Road Will Put on Gasoline Car Service from Beloit to Janesville.

Beginning Monday the North-Western road will run a car driven by a gasoline motor between here and Beloit to connect with the through trains, all of which with one exception do not run through Beloit. This will be done both to test the new car which are a comparative novelty in the railroad business as well as to give Beloit people good connections with the through trains. The runs, for the new car, will be made in twenty-five minutes for the distance between here and Beloit, and the schedule will be arranged so as to connect with all the through trains.

The car, which was purchased from the Union Pacific railroad, has been more or less of a hobby of E. H. Harrelson. Successful experiments have been made in Dakota and the North-Western road has decided to use this car for branch line work as much as possible. The car contains a 200-horse-power gasoline engine, water-cooled, will seat sixty passengers and has a baggage compartment.

PLUGGING OF STORM-SEWER CAUSED MUCH TROUBLE

For Street Commissioner James Bennett and His Men—Located at Corner of N. First and N. Main.

Saturday night the storm sewer at the corner of North First and North Main streets became plugged up with slush and ice and all efforts to dislodge the obstruction with long poles proved unavailing. The sewer runs through the alley near the fire station to the river and the seat of the trouble was the "T" intersection of a pipe from the Empire hotel, street cut, Commissioner Bennett and his men cut a surface gutter across the intersection of North First street and that kept the water out of the Whidow store. Yesterday they applied steam pipe to the blockade. The ten-inch tile is laid in an old stone drain and is too small, particularly when pointed-pebbles and other refuse get into the pipes and complicate matters.

NOTICE.

All persons knowing themselves to be indebted for state and county taxes will please give the matter early and immediate attention and pay return charges.

The Oldest and Best Known Cough Remedy in the World

Improved Motor Sled. Vienna, Feb. 21.—An Austrian inventor named Rautwax has invented a motor sled which is claimed to be superior to other sleds of this kind. Hitherto it has been possible to use motor sleds on level ground over well packed snow or ice surfaces. The Rautwax motor sled, on the other hand, can be utilized on fresh fallen, deep snow, as well as on rising grades. The propulsion of the sled is accomplished by a paddle wheel driven by a motor which is placed under the rear part of the sled, as

The main parts of the wheel are first a cylinder by which it is attached to the hub by two rows of spokes; second, paddles which are attached to the surface of the cylinder. These two parts co-operate in motion in such a manner that the cylinder continually presses the snow and thereby increases the resistance, that the paddles find when they come in contact with the snow. When the sled is to be used on ice surfaces, segments fitted with sharp points are provided, upon the ends of the paddle.

A New Back for an Old One—How It Is Done in Janesville.

The back aches at times with a dull, indescribable feeling, making you weary and restless, piercing pains shoot across the region of the kidneys, and again the joys are so lame to stoop in agony. No use to rub or apply a plaster to the back in this condition. You cannot reach the cause. Exchange the bad back for a new and stronger one. Follow the example of this Janesville citizen, John Lawler, of 229 South River street, Janesville, Wis., says:

"During the several years I suffered from kidney trouble I used about every remedy that was ever recommended, and it is a positive fact that none of these preparations did me as much good as a few boxes of Doan's Kidney Pills which I purchased recently at the People's Drug Co. I might say they have given me new back. I will never forget the great relief I found through the use of Doan's Kidney Pills and I keep them always on hand, and whenever I feel that weakness in the back I appeal and they soon drive the trouble away."

THE MYSTERY

By STEWART EDWARD WHITE
And SAMUEL HOPKINS ADAMS

COPYRIGHT, 1907, BY MCCLURE, PHILLIPS & CO.

Then the captain rushed below, emerging after an instant with a chest which he hung after his subordinate. It was followed a moment later by a stream of small stuff—mingled with language—projected through an open porthole. This in turn ceased. The captain reappeared with a pall and brush, scrubbed feverishly at the offending spot, mopped it dry with that same old red bandanna handkerchief, glared about him and abruptly became as serene and placid as a noon calm. He took up the direction of the stevedores. It was all most astounding.

Nobody paid any attention to the mate, he looked toward the ship once or twice, thought better of it and began to pick up his effects, muttering savagely. In a moment or so he threw his chest aboard an outgoing truck and departed.

It was now nearly noon and I was just in the way of going for something to eat when I caught sight of another mate laden with boxes and crated artifacts, which I recognized as scientific apparatus. It was followed in quick succession by three others. Ignorant as I was of the requirements of a scientist, my common sense told me this could be no exploring outfit. I radioed my first intention of going to the club and bought a sandwich or two at the corner coffee house. I don't know why, but even then the affair seemed big with mystery, with the portent of tragedy. Perhaps the smell of salt was in my nostrils and the sea called. It has always possessed for me an extraordinary allurement.

A little after 2 o'clock a cab drove to the after gangplank and stopped. From it alighted a young man of whom I shall later have occasion to tell you more, followed by Dr. Schornerhorn. The young man carried only a light leather "satchel," such as students use abroad, while the doctor fairly staggered under the weight of a

"You need a mate," said I. "I look me over."

"Perhaps," he admitted. "Where's your man?"

"Right here," said I. "His eyes widened a little. Otherwise he showed no sign of surprise. I cursed my clothes.

Fortunately I had my master's certificate with me—I'd passed fresh water on the great lakes—I always carry that sort of document on the chance that it may come handy. It chanced to have a couple of naval endorsements, results of the late war.

"Look here," I said before I gave it to him. "You don't believe in me. My clothes are too good. That's all right. They're all I have that are good. I'm broke." I came down here wondering whether I'd better throw myself in the drink."

"You look like a dud," he sneered, "Where did you ever ship?"

I handed him my certificate. The endorsements from Admiral Knays and Captain Arnold impressed him. "He stared at me again; and a gleam of meaning crept into his eyes.

"Nothing crooked about this?" he breathed softly.

I had the key to this side of his character. You remember I had overheard the night before his statement of his moral scruples. I said nothing, but looked knowing.

"What was it?" he murmured, "Plain desertion or something worse?"

I remained inscrutable.

"Well," he conceded, "I do need a mate, and a naval man—even if he's wan't to get out of sight!"

"He won't split on your decks anyway," I broke in boldly.

Captain Selover's hairy face blushed about the mouth. This I subsequently discovered was symptom of a grin.

"It struck also one of the dock men, who can forward, eager for a tip."

"Kin I carry th' box for you, boss?" he asked, at the same time reaching for it.

The doctor's thin figure seemed failing to shrink at the idea.

"No, no!" he cried. "It is not for me to sign articles."

"By the way," said I, "I wish you would make out in my own name, 'Engen' will do."

"All right," he laughed, "I said, Engen it is."

"I'll be aboard at 6," said I. "I've got to make some arrangements."

"Wish you could help with the loading," said he. "Still I can get along. Want any advance money?"

"No," I replied. "Then I remembered that I was supposed to be broke."

"Yes," I amended.

He gave me $10.

"I guess you'll show up," he said. "Wouldn't do this to everybody." But a naval man—even if he is dodgin' Uncle Sam!"

"I'll be here," I assured him.

At that time I wore a pointed beard. This I shaved; also I was accustomed to use eyeglasses. The trouble was merely a slight astigmatism which bothered me only in reading or close inspection. I could get along perfectly well without glasses, so I discarded them. I had my hair cut rather close. When I had put on my sea boots, blue trousers and shirt, a pea jacket and a cap I felt quite safe from the recognition of a man like Dr. Schornerhorn. In fact, as you shall see, I hardly spoke to him during all the voyage out. Promptly at 6, then, I returned with a sea chest, bound I knew not with what, to be gone I knew not for how long and pledged "to not" as "second officer on a little 150 ton schooner."

CHAPTER IX.

I HAD every reason to be satisfied with my disguise—if such it could be called. Captain Selover at first failed to recognize me. Then he burst into his shrill chuckle.

" Didn't know you," he trembled. "But you look shipshape. Come, I'll show you your quarters."

Immediately I discovered what I had suspected before—that on so small a schooner the mate took rank with the men rather than the afterguard. Cabin accommodations were of course very limited. My own lurked in the waist of the ship—a tiny little airtight hole.

"Here's where Johnson stayed," professed Selover. "You can bunk here or you can go in the fo'c'sle with the men. They're more room there. We'll get under way with the turn of the tide."

He left me. I examined the cabin. It was just a trifle larger than its single berth, and the berth was just a trifle larger than myself. My chest would have to be left outside. I strongly suspected that my lungs would have to be left outside also.

For the life of me I could not see where the air was to come from. With a mental reservation in favor of investigating the forecastle I went on deck.

The Laughing Lass was one of the prettiest little schooners I ever saw. Were it not for the lines of her bilges and the internal arrangement of her hold it might be imagined she had been built originally as a pleasure yacht. Even the ruse of her masts, a little forward of plumb, bore out this impression, which a comparatively new sail of canvas, well stopped down, threw stanchions forward and two little guns under tarpaulin almost confirmed. Her complement of boats was ample enough. She had two surfboats, a dingy and a dory slung to the davits. In addition another dory—the one you picked me up in—was lashed to the top of the deckhouse.

"They'd mighty near have a boat apiece," I thought and went forward. Just outside the forecastle hatch I passed. Some one below was singing in a voice singularly rich in quality. The words and the quaintness of the minor air struck me immensely and have clung to my memory like a burr ever since:

"Are you a man-o'-war or a privateer?"

"I look like a jolly fellow, what care we?"

"Oh, I am a jolly pirate, and I'm sailing for my feet."

"Down on the coast of the high barbare-oo."

I stepped to the companion. The voice at once ceased. I descended.

A glimmer of late afternoon struggled through the deadlights. I found myself in a really commodious space, extending far back of where the forward bulkheads are usually placed, accommodating rows and rows of bunks—eighteen of them, in fact. The unlighted lamp cast its shadow over wood stanchions black by much use, but polished like ebony from the continued friction of men's garments. I wish I could convey to you the uncanny effect this—of dropping from the decks of a miniature craft to the internal arrangements of a square rigged ship. It was no though entering a cottage door you were to discover yourself on the floor of Madison Square Garden.

A fresh sweet breeze of evening snaked down the hatch. Immediately descended on the forecastle. Already it was being borne in on me that I was little more than glorified boat's mate. The situation suited me, however. It enabled me to watch the course of events more safely, less exposed to the danger of recognition.

Bishop Charles H. Fowler at bottom and Bishop Joseph C. Hartzell at Top

Washington, D. C., March 3.—The many friends of the world-renowned bishops, Charles H. Fowler now officiating in New York city, and Joseph C. Hartzell, bishop for Africa, are glad to learn that the United States congress is about to reward them for their heroic conduct in saving lives in 1861-64. At that time the two bishops were students in the Northwestern university.

There has never been any official recognition of the deeds of those young men. Their friends, through Representative Ross, are endeavoring to obtain gold medals which might have been granted to them long ago.

In view of the fact that the law authorizing the secretary of the treasury to bestow gold medals to persons saving lives at the risk of their own was not passed until 1874, it is necessary to obtain a special act of congress to bring the award about.

In describing the exploits of Fowler on the memorial day of the Lady Elgin wreck, David D. Thompson, editor of the Northwestern Christian Advocate at Chicago, in a letter to Secretary Cortelyou, advocating the granting of the medals, says about 50 persons were washed towards the high, rocky shore on bits of wreckage and that the rescuers worked for six hours with ropes tied about their waists and held by one end by those on shore.

"A man was seen on a piece of wreckage," says Mr. Thompson, "from which he would at intervals leap into the water and from it push on to a raft which looked like a human bundle. Fowler swam out as far as he could and saw that the object was a human body. He untied the rope under his arm which was intended to enable the students to draw him towards the shore, and swam out until he reached the man on the wreckage. As he approached and went into a trough between the waves the man caught up his son and ran toward young Fowler, who put his arms under the bodies of the father and son. The next wave rolled all under together but Fowler held on to them and together they were washed ashore."

Concerning the exploits of young Hartzell in 1861, when the schooner Storm was wrecked, Mr. Thompson writes that by means of a life line which he carried through a sea so rough that no boat could venture upon it, the young man saved all on board the Storm except one who perished from cold. Quoting from a letter sent to the secretary of the Evanston Historical society by one of the survivors, Mr. Thompson shows the desperate position in which the sailors found themselves and how Hartzell saved them.

"When our schooner was righted," says the letter, "we saw many people on shore who had built fires in many places. The man who was holding on next to me dropped down from exhaustion, chilled to the heart. I held his head between my knees, seeing that he had not strength enough to keep himself from being washed away. In this position he remained until death relieved him of his sufferings."

"Soon after this incident I saw a man on shore take off his coat and vest and tie a rope around his body, and I knew by his motions that he meant business. Directly he plunged into the surf and I could see that he was a good swimmer. I knew he could bring us out with that line. At last he came alongside and I ran to take it from him. I took the line and made some attempt to express a word of gratitude to him for his heroic action. He wanted to come aboard but I said: Better not. You will chill in no time and he went back."

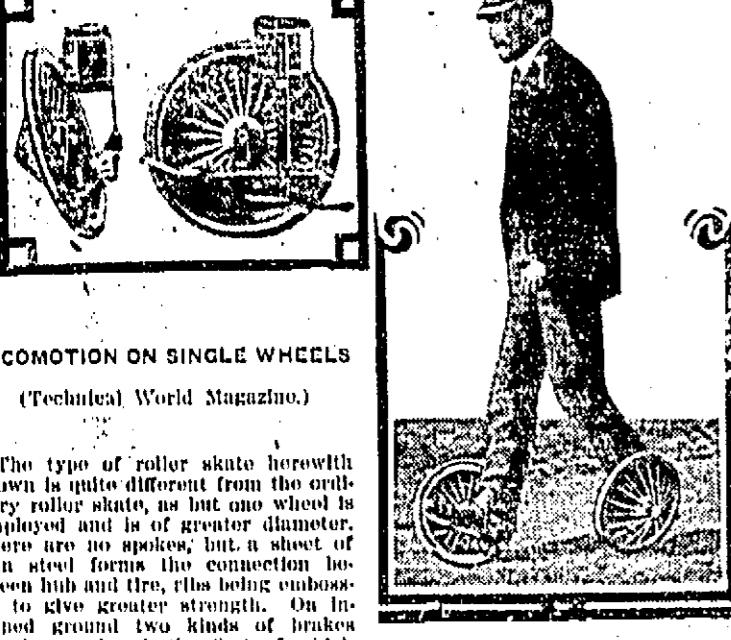

SKI JUMPING IN NORWAY

The most popular winter sport in Norway is ski jumping. It is decidedly a thrilling sport and requires the utmost skill and practice. Jumps of 125 to 150 feet are often accomplished. The distance, however, is not the only requirement for a skillful ski jumper.

for the grace with which he holds his pose in midair is considered just as important as the distance gained.

LOCOMOTION ON SINGLE WHEELS

(Technical World Magazine.)

The type of roller skate herewith shown is quite different from the ordinary roller skate, as but one wheel is employed and is of greater diameter. There are no spokes; but a sheet of thin steel forms the connection between hub and tire, this being embossed to give greater strength. On inclined ground two kinds of brakes can be employed, the first of which operates by sliding on the ground, the other by acting upon the inner tire.

The forward motion is effected by pushing backward and pulling the foot behind, but so that the wheel is not lifted from the ground. An experienced tea or roller skater learns to use these wheels very quickly.

The pneumatic tires shown in the illustration have been abandoned, as they are too elastic for this purpose. The new models are fitted with solid rubber, which gives a much better support. The shoe is fastened on with clamps and screws; also the lower leg is strapped to vertical struts. The inventor is a Swiss engineer. He intends to fit a gasoline motor to wheels for those who wish to "walk" by automobile power.

Gov. Creel Asks Aid.

A telegram from Gov. Creel of Chihuahua was received by Chief Ponco of Juarez Monday afternoon stating that a liberal reward had been offered for the capture of the bank robbers, and asked that the United States immigration authorities be requested to keep a lookout for suspicious characters and for bills of the denominations.

The immigration authorities here have issued instructions to their border riders and to the officials at the stations along the line to keep a lookout for the missing bills.

Blind Massaurs the Best.

In London massage by the blind is an accepted and successful profession. Some doctors will employ no others. In Japan, until recently, none except the blind were allowed to do massage, and in Yokohama alone it is stated that out of 1,000 masseurs earning a livelihood 900 are blind.

Gould System Has Many Sweeping
Changes—Missouri Lines

Estimate 10,000.

St. Louis, Mar. 3.—According to a recapitulation of statements of Missouri railroad officials published here Monday about 19,000 employees in the operating, mechanical, and clerical departments have been dismissed recently to offset heavy revenue losses suffered by the roads.

It is estimated by the state railroad commission that probably 8,000 of the present unemployed force have been laid off during the past 15 days. The Chicago & Alton management announced Monday that its 100 passenger train collectors would be dispensed with, employees retained by the "Cotton Bell" road. It is announced, have been required to lay off five days each month without pay until further notice.

Sweeping retrenchments have been ordered by the Gould interests operating the St. Louis, Iron Mountain & Southern and Missouri Pacific roads. The operating officials of the Frisco road hold a conference Monday at Springfield, Mo., to reduce operating expenses until the crops begin to move next fall. The Missouri, Kansas & Texas road has put into effect many economies, which, according to one of the officials have cut down operating expenses $50,000 a month.

The Louisville & Nashville, Mobile & Ohio, Southern railway and many other roads operating to the south out of here have made a ten per cent. cut in the wages of all employees not identified with labor unions. The Washash has laid off a number of men and closed its repair shops.

Grand Forks, N. D., Mar. 2.—The Great Northern railway is making wholesale reductions in the telegraph force. Stations are being closed and the telegraph is being done away with as much as possible. Between Grand Forks and Devils Lake the block system has been put out of commission.

Hornell, N. Y., Mar. 3.—A general reduction in the wage scale for engine and train crews on the Erie railroad was announced Monday. The cut will affect engineers, firemen, trainmen, clerks, shopmen and station agents. In most instances the cut is ten per cent. The engineers' cut will be effective March 22 and on the others at once. A meeting of the wage committees of all brotherhoods has been called for March 26 in New York.

A Golden Rule.

In reflections on the absent, go no further than you would go if they were present. "I resolve," says Bishop Horridge, "never to speak of a man's virtues before his face, nor of his faults behind his back." A golden rule, the observance of which would at one stroke banish from the earth flattery and defamation.

New Methods of Welding.

By the autogenous method two sheets of metal may be welded by placing their edges and following the seam with a blowpipe. "Seamless" copper and sheet vessels may be made by forming the body and ends separately and tracing the joints with the blowpipe.
